On heirloom quality

“I inherited an Edward Wormley for Dunbar sofa 30 years ago from my parents, who bought it when they were first married and living in the Village in New York City. It’s a very simple tuxedo-style sofa. I’ve re-covered it three or four times, but it remains as timeless and elegant as ever. Anything so well designed and well made should last a lifetime.”

“I use sectionals in family rooms and movie rooms, because you can easily make different conversation areas—just pick one that’s easy to push together or pull apart. One of my favorites is the RH Cloud sofa. It’s soooo comfortable, and you really do feel like you’re floating on a cloud!”
